

You may live in Alaska if.....

- If someone in a Home Depot store offers you assistance and they don't work there, you may live in Alaska.
- If you've worn shorts, a parka, and bunny boots at the same time, you may live in Alaska.
- If you've had a lengthy telephone... conversation with someone who dialed a wrong number,... you may live in Alaska.
- If you measure distance in hours and not minutes, you may live in Alaska.
- If you know several people who have hit a moose more than once, you may live in Alaska.
- If you can drive 75 mph through 2 feet of snow during a raging blizzard without flinching, you may live in Alaska.
- If you install security lights on your house and garage, but leave both unlocked, you may live in Alaska.
- If your wife knows how to back up a boat trailer perfectly, you may live in Alaska.
- If you design your kid's Halloween costume to fit over a snowsuit, you may live in Alaska.
- If the speed limit on the highway is 55 mph -- you're going 80 and everybody is passing you, you may live in Alaska.
- If driving is better in the winter because the potholes are filled with snow, you may live in Alaska.
- If you know all 4 seasons: almost winter, winter, still winter and road construction, you may live in Alaska.
- If you have more miles on your snow blower than your car, you may live in Alaska.
- If you find 15 degrees below zero 'a little chilly', you may live in Alaska.

And if a majority of the food in your freezer is stamped, NOT FOR RESALE, you may live in Alaska.
